Statement of Explanation

Montana and North Dakota have a reciprocal income tax agreement whereby Montana will not tax North Dakota residents on income from personal services rendered in Montana, and North Dakota will not tax Montana residents on income from personal services rendered in North Dakota. This exemption is specifically limited to compensation for personal or professional services that are subject to withholding of federal income tax.

We will not withhold Montana income tax for compensation paid to an employee who is a North Dakota resident as long as the employee has furnished his/her employer with a Certificate of Residence, Form NR-2.
